EUROPEAN AIR LAW ASSOCIATION

26TH ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Oslo, Friday 7TH November 2014
Holmenkollen Park Hotel Rica

EUROPEAN AIR LAW ASSOCIATION (EALA)
26th ANNUAL CONFERENCE

EALA is delighted to invite you to attend its 26th Annual Conference, to be held in Oslo, a city with a proud history going back more than one thousand years. Oslo has many links with transport, including air transport, and serves as a hub for commerce and trade in Northern Europe. Moreover, exactly one hundred years ago, the Norwegian aviator, Tryggve Gran became the first pilot ever to cross the North Sea.

EALA’s mission

Since 1989, EALA has arranged conferences and seminars in Europe focusing on important legal issues regarding the aviation industry. Over those 26 years EALA has gained international recognition and respect as a leading forum for the discussion of topical developments regarding aviation law, especially from a European perspective. The mission of EALA is, among other things, to:

- serve as the leading and essential association addressing the development of air law in Europe;
- ensure dissemination of information about, and the study of, air law in Europe, and
- be a forum for the exchange of views and provide an opportunity for those interested in European air law to meet each other.

EALA’s 26th Annual Conference

While the EU is trying to develop its relations with third countries and complete its internal regulations and policies, EALA intends to analyse past achievements while looking forward on the basis of that evaluation. Those achievements concern the maintenance of a level playing field, not only in the internal market but also in relations with third states and their carriers in accordance with the principle of ‘fair competition’ which should enable air carriers to operate their services under equivalent and harmonised conditions. The EU and ICAO are attempting to promote this principle in multilateral, plurilateral and bilateral fora. One important issue which arises is that of state aid. EU law on state aid is enforced against EU member states, often in a context concerning EU airlines, but the question is how to enforce it against non-EU states and their airlines. Hence, EU airlines find themselves in a particular position which affects their operations and their status under the current EU market access regulation, i.e. Regulation 1008/2008, which is designed to protect the values of the EU internal market for the benefit of EU air carriers so defined under that regulation. EU policymakers face multifaceted and challenging questions on the maintenance of the basic principles of the constitutional treaty of the EU (the TFEU) promoting ‘an open market with free competition’ while, at the same time, assuring sustainable connectivity and, again, the sustainable health of the European airline industry, requiring cross border investments and the guarantee of sufficient choice for passengers based in the EU. These dilemmas will be discussed in several sessions during our forthcoming Annual Conference by speakers from various backgrounds so as to assure a balanced articulation of the complex issues and so as to contribute to a better understanding and formulation of new ideas.

In addition to these economically oriented subjects, EALA also wants to pay attention to the subject of safety which continues to dominate the aviation agendas in Europe and other parts of the world – not least because of the two tragic Malaysia Airlines events; the mysterious disappearance of MH370 and the presumed shootdown of MH17 in Ukrainian airspace. Thus, accident and incident investigation remains a relevant subject, not least for reasons pertaining to international air law.

Finally, we wish to offer an update on other topical subjects, including bankruptcy of airlines, the regulation of unmanned aircraft, the EU ETS which is becoming a perennial topic, and recent cases involving passenger protection, also on the particular position of handicapped passengers.

This topical agenda should attract all those who are involved with European and international aviation and we look forward to welcoming you in Oslo.

The conference will take place at Holmenkollen Park Hotel, located in stunning surroundings 350 metres above Oslo city centre with fabulous views of the Norwegian capital and the fjord beyond. This location, just a few steps away from the famous Holmenkollen ski jump and the Ski Museum, sheltered from the city’s hustle and bustle, will help the delegates to meet each other and to network also before and after the sessions of the conference.

EALA is grateful for the generous sponsorship provided by Avinor AS.
